Elaine _? online posting: Swindlehurst/Truckle connection in Guelph 1896c
Killed by a Trolley Car.

Guelph, Oct. 19 -- A fatal accident occurred here about 1 o'clock this afternoon, when an elderly woman named Mrs. Truckle was run over and instantly killed by motor car No. 2, while it was running up the hill approaching the O.A.C. Mrs. Truckle accompanied her grandson to a store to buy some gum. She waited outside for the little lad, and when he returned they started to recross the track. The car was running at a considerable speed, and as the boy, who was in advance, reached and stepped on the track, his grandmother, seeing his danger, rushed forward and endeavored to draw him back, but she was too late. The car struck her and killed her almost instantly. Her head was badly crushed, and her back and one of her legs broken. The boy, whose name is Swindlehurst, was also badly injured, but is expected to recover. His life was only saved by his grandmother holding him clasped in her arms while the car pushed them along. he is now in St. Joseph's hospital and doing nicely. Mrs. Truckle was about 50 years old, and was a widow. Her family are all grown up. This is the first fatal accident since the street railway commenced running in this city.

1898: ROBERT SWINDLEHURST & ADA MOORE

[Gary (Jg): Robert son of Robert Swindlehurst & Mary Ann Lord married 1861 St James, Accrington]

Details from branch researcher John Gary Swindlehurst (Jg)

Gary: Robert came out of the army in 1896 – according to my grandfather, he borrowed the money from Courtland – and married Ada Moore. They had 3 sons, the first of whom, Walter, died in infancy. Arthur, the next, was my grandfather, and finally, Robert. Arthur married Mary Whitaker and had 1 son, Stanley, my father. HE married Joan Morris, a union which resulted in myself and a sister, Christine (who suddenly and unexpectedly died last year). Mum and Dad are still alive, living in Bingley, Yorks.

Jg: Robert married Ada Moore on 26 Nov 1898 at Keighley Register Office.

Children:

Jg: They had the following offspring

1. Walter, b 1899 in Bingley, d 1901, also in Bingley

Gatchell started first newspaper in Wadena

In March 24, 1877, a gentleman by the name of Prince Arthur Gatchell started the first newspaper in Wadena named The Tribune. The Duluth Tribune described Gatchell to be about as sprightly as any chap on the Northern Pacific road.

Another Duluth paper described the Tribune as a neat little paper and clean in its appearance. A neat six-column, four-page sheet, well edited.

Later that year S.S. Gardner, a local real estate agent, began publishing the Wadena Real Estate Journal which he stated he started as an advertising medium and for his own amusement. However, it was a short-lived publication being suspended before the end of that year. This paper was printed at Brainerd.

The subscription rate for one year for the Tribune was $2 in money or two bushels of #1 wheat, 12 pounds of nice good butter, 13 dozen eggs or 8 bushels of potatoes.

On Nov. 16, 1878, came the announcement that after the 25th of this month the paper will be presented as the Wadena County Tribune and published at Verndale. The change to be made simply as a business point of view because of the generous and unsolicited proposition extended to us by the wide awake businessmen and citizens of Verndale.

In 1878, a man by the name of Joseph E. Hall and his brother were the owners of the Fargo Argus newspaper. They split and Joseph, along with a man by the name of McClure, came to Wadena and started the Northern Pacific Farmer, a weekly newspaper. Hall did not recall the date of the first issue but did vividly recall the production. It began with an old Washington hand press which they had picked up in Fargo, and the shop was located in a story-and-a-half unfinished building, built by contributed labor and material of its citizens on a lot facing the railroad contributed by the Northern Pacific (probably 23 Aldrich Ave. SE).

During this printing, there were many local spectators and Mr. Hall, at 5-feet, 6-inches, tells of operating the hand press, which he was very familiar with. A young local blacksmith, with some reputation for strength asked if he could try pulling the lever to operate the press. In so doing he tried several times before he could operate it and upon the return of the lever he was jerked over the frame to the delight of other spectators.

The first advertisement placed was an ad for the upcoming Fourth of July celebration in Wadena. It proved quite difficult because of the lack of materials and type.

In 1880, Hall and McClure parted company and Hall took on W. Jay Whipple as a partner. Later that year, George Whitney, one of the town leaders, purchased Hall's interest and he and Jay Whipple ran the paper until 1883.

In 1883, they sold the paper to Amzi H. Bereman and George Wilson still under the name of Northern Pacific Farmer. However in 1886 they changed the name to Wadena County Pioneer. In 1887, on Bereman's death, the paper was sold to the Reynolds brothers, Joseph and B. M. They operated the paper until 1891 when they sold it to Charles C. Eastman.

According to Alvah Swindlehurst, a long-time editor up until at least 1913, local newspapers were little more than a jumble of old and almost worthless material, poorly housed and requiring almost super human effort on the part of the publishers to accomplish the weekly task of issuing their papers.

In 1885, Edward H. Love and A. C. Archer, editors of the Bluffton News, moved the paper to Wadena and established the Wadena Tribune. A few years later they sold this to M. L. Vought and the next year he sold to Harold T. Bivans, who in 1897 sold to the Swindlehurst Brothers, William and Alvah. They were an interesting couple, Alvah having been born in Wadena and the paper strongly Democrat differing with their arch Republican rival the Wadena Pioneer Journal. Alvah was the son of Joseph Swindlehurst, the first blacksmith in Wadena, graduated in the class of 1891 and is said to have had a beautiful tenor singing voice. He married a local girl, Jennie Beach, and in 1905 with the consolidation of papers he became editor of the Pioneer Journal, a position he held until 1913 when he left Wadena to become the U.S. Land Agent at Cass Lake. He was succeeded by Harald Boen as editor. Over the years he and Boen became good friends.

The Swindlehurst brothers were very positive in their beliefs and judgments. For some reason they took a dislike to the Wadena mayor, Robert F. C. Iltis, a local druggist.

They accused him, in his office as mayor, of being in favor of the establishment and maintenance of houses of ill fame in this city, that he fostered them with a tender solicitude and that he was a frequent and favored visitor to some of these places. As proof, Editor Swindlehurst had as a star witness, a poor fallen woman, who at one time conducted a house of ill repute in this city and upon complaint of citizens Mayor Iltis ordered her and the occupants of another house out of the city last spring. Anyway, the jury ruled in favor of Iltis and he was awarded $1. Mike Daly of Perham was the defense attorney and P. V. Coppernoll of Wadena worked for Iltis. Bear in mind that the above appeared in the rival newspaper, the Pioneer Journal. Headline in the Tribune: "Iltis wins libel trial awarded $1. Big deal." In 1903, Dr. Babcock who was running for state representative, determined that he needed a newspaper to further his cause and purchased the Tribune from the Swindlehursts for $4,000. He hired William Verity, a well-known editor, to run the paper for him. In 1905, they sold out to the Pioneer Journal.

This whole affair becomes a little jumbled when Albert S. McMillan moved from Verndale to start the Wadena Journal (215 Jefferson South). In 1897, he sold this to Charles C. Eastman and C. V. Sayles, owners of the Wadena County Pioneer (118 Jefferson South). These gentlemen combined the two papers forming the Wadena Pioneer Journal -- the newspaper we know today (209 ½ Jefferson, 314 Jefferson South in 2009).

From this time forward the Pioneer Journal dominated the newspaper scene but over the years there were other competitors which were taken over by the Pioneer Journal.

From Descendant Gary: Re: CHRISTOPHER.

I RECALL MY GRANDFATHER TELLING ME THAT HIS G-F (ROBERT) HAD GONE TO USA WITH HIS BROTHER AND THEIR FAMILIES, AND THAT THEY'D HAD A FALLING OUT AND ROBERT BROUGHT HIS FAMILY BACK TO ENGLAND. THAT ROBERT IS NOT ON THE 1871 CENSUS, WHILST MARY ANN AND CHRISTOPHER ARE, SUGGESTS THAT THIS WAS NOT ENTIRELY TRUE!

IT MAY BE WORTH NOTING THAT CHRISTOPHER, HIS BROTHER, IS ALSO MISSING FROM THE 1871 CENSUS ALONG WITH HIS WIFE, ANN. IT MAY BE THAT ROBERT WENT TO USA WITH CHRIS AND ANN. WHEN, I DON'T KNOW, AS I HAVE BEEN UNABLE TO FIND ANY RECORD OF ROBERT ENTERING USA. WIFE AND SON, YES! HIM, NO.

JUST LIKE ROBERT, CHRIS REAPPEARS ON UK CENSUS IN 1881, AS A WIDOWER. I HAVE NOT BEEN ABLE TO FIND A RECORD OF ANN'S DEATH.

Jg: Christopher seems to have been a little economical with the truth when filling in USA documents - he was born in Accrington!!

1. Paul Lamartine Yates. Born 1908

From Keith Atkinson:

Yes, I have it on good authority from the Harris Museum that this is the same Thomas Swindlehurst (the reformed drunkard). I agree, there is a marked difference in his appearance and I questioned this myself when I first saw the portrait and I showed my other pictures to the Keeper of Art at the Harris. You have to remember that he is younger on this one and the skill of the artists in capturing a likeness is not known – artistic licence and all that. He has definitely been spruced up for his portrait, rather than his normal ragged appearance. If you look carefully at the newspaper he has on the desk in the painting, it is a copy of the Temperance Advocate. I wondered, at first, if it may have been of his son Thomas Hill but the date is not consistent with that, but is for Thomas senior. I also have a picture of a second portrait of his wife Sarah (Nelson) but this is a later date and she is an older lady – this has not be through any conservation and I'm afraid she will continue to live off-show in the basement of the Harris. I have attached this for you, I have also attached another Thomas sketch I have uncovered.

The provenance of these oil paintings is that they were donated to the Harris Museum in 1938 by Rose and Paul Lamartine Yates. This date was just prior to the Temperance Hall in Preston being demolished and it may have been rescued from there. I believe it was this portrait that is referred to in "Reminiscences of the Preston Cockpit & The Old Teetotallers" – Thomas Walmsley (1892) where he says, of Thomas ... "Swindlehurst, the best likeness of whom is the one in the Temperance Hall, was a man of grand physique – Well built, well proportioned.". Paul Lamartine Yates is really a Swindlehurst, (son of Thomas Lamartine Swindlehurst - who became Thomas Lamartine Yates - and Rose Lamartine Yates (a famous suffragette) but those are stories in themselves!

Thanks to everyone for their help with the will for Thomas Hill Swindlehurst – I have sent off my request by post for a copy.

Paul Lamartine Yates, who together with his mother Rose donated the oil paintings, was Thomas' great-grandson.

Starting with Thomas and Sarah Swindlehurst, who are the subjects of the paintings: They had many children, most of whom survived into adulthood. I am descended from their tenth child, Samuel, but the inheritance of these paintings, for some reason, passed down the line of their eighth child, William Swindlehurst.

William's career was in property development, which began in Preston as Secretary of the Chartist Land Company, and continued when he moved to Camberwell in London. He was, first the Manager, and then Company Secretary, for the Artizans, Labourers & General Dwellings Company, a philanthropic model dwellings company. In 1877, during the development of the Queens Park Estate (origins of QPR FC), William, together with two colleagues were arrested, tried and convicted for defrauding £9,312 (approximately £650 thousand today) from the project. William was sentenced, at the Old Bailey, to eighteen months in prison. You can read the full account of the case at the Old Bailey at:

<http://www.oldbaileyonline.org/browse.jsp?id=t18771022-761&div=t18771022-761>

William was married and had four adult sons at the time of his imprisonment. His eldest was Thomas Lamartine Swindlehurst. Thomas started his career as an engineer, but must have started studying law during the 1870s. At around the time of his father's conviction, he was a qualified Solicitor, and these events must have been professionally embarrassing for him.

It appears that the whole family, (except perhaps James Nelson Swindlehurst), changed their surname to Yates (the significance of this name is yet to be discovered – it was not his mother's maiden name as one might expect). Thomas must have decided to use his middle name also as a surname and became known as Tom Lamartine Yates.

In 1900, Tom married Rose Emma Janau, (his second wife - having been previously widowed), who was 26 years his junior. Rose (whose parents were French), met Tom at a cycling club and then studied law with him so that she could help him with his practice. It is possible that through this work she became aware of the prejudice and injustice of the law as it treated her fellow women. Tom was in sympathy with Rose's ideas and supported her in all her activities.

Their only child, Paul, was born on 19th June 1908.

Rose developed into a woman of fiery and independent spirit and went on to become a very prominent figure in the Suffragette movement. Rose was imprisoned on 24th February 1909 for one month, when Paul was just eight months old, for being a member of the deputation to Prime Minister Asquith. Also in 1909, she joined the committee of the Wimbledon branch of the Women's Social & Political Union (WSPU), becoming its treasurer and organising secretary in 1910.

Tom represented many of the Suffragettes in the courts, and represented the family of Emily Wilding Davison, (who famously threw herself under the King's horse at the 1913 Derby), at her inquest. Incidentally, Tom was also hired by Frank Woolworth to write the Memorandum and Articles of Association needed to apply to become a British Company under the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908, to enable him to open his F W Woolworth shops in the UK.

Paul grew up to become a brilliant applied economic analyst, working all over the world in British Embassies and for the Food and Agricultural Organisation of the United Nations.

From the age of 95 to 97, he was busy writing a very large autobiography dealing with every aspect of his life and work. It has not, as yet, found a publisher. He was still alive and living in France with his 3rd wife, to celebrate his 100th birthday in 2008, but it is not known if he is still alive today.
